

Sinclair's decision to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear, egregious example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair has been given the use of the public airwaves free of charge, and is OBLIGATED BY LAW to serve the public interest. But when large companies control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the bottom line and less of what we need for our democracy.

Sinclair's actions only prove why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not continue to weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
